TALK ABOUT ENGLAND MADE IN CONVOCATION

Miss Eugenia M. Morenus, who has returned after a year's absence in England as a Fellow of the American Association of University Women doing research work at Cambridge University, spoke at Convocation on her experiences among the English people. Living with them and knowing them rather intimately, Miss Morenus says, has aroused her admiration for their honesty, cordiality, hospitality; and their leisurely way of living, she believes, is restful and charming. However, they have some lessons to learn from the Americans, whom they pathetically misunderstand, in the way of sanitation, and the use of ice and electricity.

Miss Morenus was very fortunate in having friends in England, with whom she took many interesting motor trips, among them a drive about the Lake District.

Several New Courses Being Offered This Year

A new course in "How to Study" is being offered this year by Dr. Crawford to Freshmen and any undergraduates who feel that they would benefit by such instruction. Any suggestions or criticisms of the course will be welcomed by Dr. Crawford.

After being discontinued for several years, with the return of Professor Morenus from Cambridge, a course in "Differential Equations" is being given for men Seniors.

With the addition of Mr. Edwards to the History Department two new courses in Political Science are being offered this year: "European Government '84," and "History of Politics" Thomsen '8-8.

Dr. Raymond, whose plans for the year have been temporarily postponed, will assume the duties of Miss Sparrow who is at present absent from Sweet Briar because of ill health.

English Department Is Entertained At Tea

Dr. Connor entertained the faculty members and student majors of the English Department at a tea in Fergus Hall parlor on September 24th, to meet Miss Ramage and Miss Smith who came to Sweet Briar this year as new members of the department.

On Thursday, October 4th, the English Club met at nine o'clock in the evening at Dr. Connor's, where the subject for study and discussion was "Plays of the Day."

Mercer Jackson Elected Treasurer Of S. G.

Last Wednesday Mercer Jackson was elected treasurer of the Student Government Association. The votes were cast by preferential ballot, in Grey Parlor. The other nominees were Harriet Williams, Alice Blake, Merry Curtis, Betty Boone, and Emma Reily.

Notice

There will be a meeting of those new girls, and any others who are interested in the NEWS at the Cabin at 7:00 p. m. Thursday.

AMELIA WOODWARD RETAINS FAIR CUP

Last Thursday afternoon, October 4th, was the annual Amherst County Fair, in which Sweet Briar took an active part.

The first class was Saddle Horses Shown with Hatter, "Kally," shown by Lucy Harrison Miller, won the blue ribbon, while "Buck," shown by Gert Prior, carried off the red, "Toby" and "Hoodini" both received yellow ribbons. They were shown by Miss Morenus and Frances Harrison, respectively.

The Green Hunters Class came second and Louise, Nelson went, Eugene Whitaker, came second and Carolyn Martinville, third. Best Horse Shown With Saddle was the third class. Violet Anderson captured the blue ribbon in this class; "Willie" Woodward second; Lucy H. Miller, third; and Agnes Spraul fourth.

The fourth class was the Hunt Team. Agnes Spraul and Mary Ellen Caswell riding with Mr. Lewis, won this class; Hulda and "Willie" riding with "Jimmy" Blackwell came second.

The fifth class was one of the most interesting because out of this group was to be chosen the best Sweet Briar rider, judged on Horsemanship.

"Willie" Woodward captured the honors and Hulda Williams came second. Those of us who were here last year will remember that Hulda ran "Willie" a close second then. Carolyn Martinville, third, Edith Raley fourth, and Perone Whitaker fifth.

"The Ride to Jericho" was the last class. Perone won first place, Hulda second, and Jean Saunders third.

The Fair was held on the same plot of ground as usual and the "hot dog" stand in the same spot. Many were lured into the gypsy's tent to hear words of wisdom concerning their futures, and others tried the merry-go-round and the Ferris wheel.

Farm products were on display inside the barn, while around the barn were several "talls" in which various persons tried their "Monte Carlo" experiences.

Aid At Indian Mission Branch Of Y. W. Work

A feature of the Y. W. work has been for some time help given at the Indian Mission near Bear Mountain. Wednesday afternoon of every week it is to be given by a group interested in this work to go to the Mission. The instruction is very simple and consists mostly in teaching the children games and how to play. Every Christmas a present is given and all their stockings are filled.

The school is run by the Episcopal church in connection with the little church that has been there for years.

Lisa Guigon is anxious to have anyone interested in this department of the Y. W. C. A. work come talk to her about it in 933 Carson.

Miss Glass Speaks Before A. A. U. W. in Richmond

President Glass went to Richmond last Friday to attend the Governor's ball. On Tuesday night, Oct. 9th, Miss Glass was one of four college presidents to speak before the A. A. U. W. in Richmond.

While in Richmond, Miss Glass is the guest of Mrs. Charles E. Burnett an alumnae of Sweet Briar and trustee of the college.

JAMES STOCKLEY TO GIVE LECTURE HERE

James Stockley, the Astronomical Editor of Science Service, will lecture at Sweet Briar on Friday night, October 19th, on "Big Telescope and What They Do."

The National Academy of Sciences in Washington, with which Mr. Stockley is connected, works for the promotion of science and its study.

Science Service, the official new magazine of this organization is under the direction of Mr. Stockley. This Astronomer along with Dr. Slosson are among the well-known members of this organization.

Mr. Stockley has for his lecture a very fascinating topic. The mystery of the movement of stars and the study of Astronomy has been clarified by the use of the powerful modern telescopes.

This lecture will be of interest not only to students of Astronomy but more especially to those with little or no knowledge of the subject.

SUCCESS — Success doesn't mean so much sitting up at nights, as being awake in the day time.

PUBLIC OPINION AND STUDENT GOVERNMENT.

A frequent topic of conversation around the campus is that of the efficiency of our Student Government at Sweet Briar; whether it exists or not, and if not, what might be done to improve it.

There is nothing basically wrong with our Student Government system, if it is to fill the place that it should, in our lives here at Sweet Briar. The rules and regulations would not be found binding or unreasonable to any sane and law-abiding citizen. And as college is a preparation for citizenship, it is right that the laws should be, as they are, in close accord with the laws of citizenship.

But the success of a democratic government such as ours at Sweet Briar lies, not in laws and amendments as much as in the attitude and opinion of the public. If we, as the community, could have a government worthy of our highest ideals, we must uphold it scrupulously, and make publicly known our attitude toward the individuals, who carelessly or intentionally infringe its rules.

No President of a governing organization, no matter how democratic it be, can maintain an honorable and successful government without the direct help of the individuals of the Democracy.

Since Public Opinion seems to occupy such a large and definite place in the success of Student Government system at Sweet Briar, let us all do our part to make it an attitude of the highest, most praise-worthy calibre.

GETTING BACK TO THE FUNDAMENTALS.

It was not without a little out-cry, some discomfort (at the thought of results) and much skepticism, that we received the detail of the change in the interpretation of Sweet Briar's honor system this fall. When we are told that a breach of a formerly called "honor rule" is no more to be considered a breach of our personal honor; that the breach would lay in not reporting ourselves for such an offense, we are glad that we are growing up and becoming more broadminded.

However, when the opposite side of the question is balanced by the same kind of interpretation—that it is the business of each girl to convince any other girl who would not set such a point for herself, to report herself when she has broken an honor rule; to go to her in a friendly way, to try and make her see that she must be upholding her own as well as Sweet Briar's honor if she did report herself—we do not receive so favorably the necessity of putting ourselves in a bad light at times even for Sweet Briar's sake.

It is possible to put Christ's estimate on this, our very own problem. In the Sermon on the Mount we find these words: "Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother."

"But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established."

"And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell him unto the church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as a heathen and a publican."

When we realize that now we are getting back to the very fundamentals of life, haven't we broadened as well as deepened more than we possibly could through any experience or opinion of our own?

You Freshmen should be highly elated over all the notoriety—pardon, fainting and gaining in my column, but you know at this time of year you are personified, the apotheosis of entertainment. Three cheers for the dear young thing who left her calling card and a box of candy at Esie Tyler's door step (one doorstep, price $2.95.)

And also—hats off to the Freshmen who like the cute milk pichers at the training tables. Why don't you add a nice cow to your shopping list, for your excursion to town to buy yourselves a pitcher for your table, so you can have lots of fresh milk.

— Protect tonight, oh benevolent dieties, all the poor little W. & L. girls lost at the great, big, wild University of Virginia.

Last week Miss Richard was seen aimlessly wandering about the campus. Her gaze indicated that she was hunting for her yacht which she had inadvertently dropped some place.

All those interested in the art of obtaining pictures from their gentlemen friends call at 290 Manson. Miss Scott volunteers the suggestion of using the "eye for an eye" tool for a tooth method. "Gee, Matinee, I wish a boy would ask me for my picture."

THE OPEN LETTER.

In the last issue of the Sweet Briar News in that section where all the world may air their opinions, an extensive space was devoted to an impassioned appeal signed by a member of the class of 1930 on the subject of hazing.

But—the writer would also like to pick a bone. Hazing we understand is discontinued at Sweet Briar not because of a fear of physical effect on the haeze—but it is not V. M. I.—nor, because this is feared that Chinese tortures would be indulged, but because it is not worthy of "college" women—and is a relic of barbarism, etc.

If that is so, would it not be advancing the standards of the college if certain societies with a general idea to that purpose would conduct their initiations in the dignity of privacy rather than in front of the golden stairs—practically the highest aspiration at Sweet Briar—up and down the dormitory halls as though the desired effect were a pleasant entertainment for the underclassmen?

And we wonder if the class of 1930, when its sister classmen are no longer Freshmen but jolly Sophomores, will see fit to look on the unfortunate class of 1933 which has yet to come?

Hoffman — Anderson — the Pacific Coast where Lieut. Hoffman will join his ship the U. S. S. Tennessee.

Under the crossed sabres of six of his fellow officers, Lieutenant Harry Draper Hoffman, of Washington, D. C., and his bride, Mildred Morrison Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Anderson, proceeded from the altar of the First Presbyterian church, Latrobe, Sunday evening, thus bringing to a close one of the most beautiful church weddings ever witnessed in Latrobe.

The bride wore a gown of wedding ring satin made with an uneven hemline and full court train of Brussels lace which has been in the family for more than 100 years. Her trousseau was held in place by a band of orange blossoms.

The bride carried a shower bouquet of orchids, roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Laura Ujely, of Latrobe, wore green more with a train and slippers to match, while the bridesmaids, Miss Carolyn Bourne, of Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Adeline Hoffman, of Tyrone, Pa.; Miss Margaret Moore, ex-'29, of Kansas City, Mo.; and Miss Barbara Yohn, ex-'29, of Wilkesburg, wore coral pink moire dresses with uneven hems and slippers to match. They carried arm bouquets of pink and blue daphnium, pink roses and baby's breath, tied with silver mesh ribbon.

The reception followed at the bride's home, the parents of the bride couple receiving with them. The bridal table was set for fourteen. It was beautifully decorated with a center of flowers and table candles in pastel shades.

Lieut. and Mrs. Hoffman left on a motor trip east; later going to the Cleveland School of Art.

Students Prefer Greek To Latin Figures Prove.

For the first time in the history of the University there is a greater number of students taking Greek than Latin. This tends to show that Greek is not becoming less popular as is the common belief. Dr. Henry V. Shelley, Professor of Ancient Languages, stated:

There is a total of 47 students taking Greek or Latin. Fifteen are studying Greek while only twelve department in conjunction with the are enrolled for Latin. The first students in the department, will make its appearance on the campus this autumn.

The magazine will appear three times a semester, and will be printed in the German language. Funds for the project have been furnished by Dr. Otto Schmidt, of Chicago.

Choir Plans Trips To Nearby Cities This Year.

The Wellesley College Choir, steadily increasing in size since its founding, has this year, with 97 members, become the largest choir in the history of the college. Its program includes concerts in New York, Boston and Newark, to be sponsored by the Wellesley Clubs in those cities. It is also planning three joint concerts with men's colleges.

Yale to Offer Flying Course Northwestern Students

Negotiations which were recently opened at the request of many undergraduates for the establishment of a ground school course in flying at Yale have been successful and the course will be inaugurated in October, according to a recent announcement of the Yale Aeronautical Society. Although approximately 160 students have applied for instruction in aviation, it will only be possible to accommodate 2 this year. Those who fail to secure enrollment in the regular course, however, will have the opportunity of taking other instruction in the rudiments of flying.

Edit German Magazine.

Evanston, Ill.—A German magazine to be published by the German students in conjunction with the department in the department, will make its appearance on the campus this autumn.

The magazine will appear three times a semester, and will be printed in the German language. Funds for the project have been furnished by Dr. Otto Schmidt, of Chicago.

A student who is high in standing in German will be chosen to edit the publication, which will deal with the current events in Germany of Americans of German descent, and will, as well, be the organ for the German club and the German department.

No Hazing for N. C.

Word comes from the University of North Carolina that by order of Dean Bradshaw of said institution the idea of hazing, from brutal beating to rolling a peanut across the floor with one's nose, are abolished forever from North Carolina's University. The "Tarheel," which evidently is not in sympathy with the idea, carried a copy of the Frosh rules of our own University, with a comment regarding the contrast between the attitude toward the "rats" in the two Universities. We believe that some form of Freshman discipline is essential.

One Week of Hockey Camp

Miss Applebee to give a welcome first—but on the field to give commands. Hockey morning, noon, and night—hockey discussed, hockey practiced, and hockey played. Practice should make perfect, but does it?

At eight o'clock the breakfast bell, followed by a frantic rushing from the cabins, pell mell, up the stairs, to the dining room. Yes, rushing the first day perhaps; but the second? Those who had no poor broken down limbs and sore muscles, were decidedly in the minority, and they alone did the rushing. Furthermore, abstinence or no abstinence, these "Crack horses" would persist in thrusting themselves upon unwilling victims.

Shortly after breakfast there would usually be a period for practicing strokes, and later came a game. The coaches were all English, all strict, but all splendid. After the periods for games they always tried to show the faults of the game, and disentangle the numerous questions on almost any subject. Then would most surely come dinner, a dinner you were more than mildly anxious to consume. And in the afternoon there was still more hockey—and La Crosse. After supper there was always a gathering to discuss various problems of hockey—and this for the first two nights, was followed by old-fashioned folk-dancing. Here too one was only too liable to be severely admonished quite publicly for faulty foot work.

But on Saturday night there was excitement and to spare. At one o'clock everyone was awakened, and in no uncertain terms. The Lodge was on fire. The entire grove was lighted by the huge glare of the crackling flames. Immediately everything was moved out of the cabins and taken to a safe distance, only to be jugged painfully back again later. In an hour the Lodge was smoldering ashes and ruin. There was no place to call. And all the new apparatus was burned. But they kept up on, and toiled people back and forth to Mr. Poony for meals and gave them still more hockey than usual at Camp.

And so the week passed. It was a glorious week, and we hope, the good did us will show through. We may not seem much better hockey players just yet, but certainly we are much wiser ones.

The Hockey Campers.

Telegraphic Archery Meet To Be Held With Smith.

A telegraphic archery meet is to be held with Smith College early in November. Each college will choose a team, shoot the match, and then send the scores by telegraph.

This match will be shot off the week of Nov. 7th. Some girls who are interested have already begun practicing, and it is hoped that more will follow their example, so that the scores may mount by competition.

Swimming Will Continue While Weather Allows.

Gladys Wester, Head of Lake, wishes to say that as long as the weather continues, there will be swimming from 9:00 to 5:00 every afternoon.

There will also be canoe lessons and tacks for Freshmen.

The Council for this year includes Hallet Gobleman, Mary D. Lyon, Herzer Jackson, Allen Leigh, M. P. Ribiclafter, Margaret Walton, Gertrude Prior, and Gladys Wester.

East's Football Week Has Southern Tinge.

New York, Oct. 9. (A.P.)—There's a decided southern tinge to the east's football schedule this week and that may be reason enough for extensive mourning on the Atlantic seaboard next Saturday night.

On that day the invasion becomes general. The members of the one time "big three" all engage southern teams with Yale drawing the hardest nut to crack—Georgia. It is football history that Georgia gave Yale's great team of 1927 its only setback and the way Mercer was annihilated, 55 to 0, last Saturday indicates that the Red and Black again may replace the Blue as the predominant color scheme at New Haven for the day.

Princeton takes on Virginia, beaten decisively by South Carolina last week and Harvard meets North Carolina which was hard put to pull out a 26 to 13 victory over Maryland.

Colgate, which already has felt the strength of southern football clashes with Virginia Poly whose strong eleven has whipped its first two opponents in overwhelming fashion.

Professor Harve Branscomb, professor of Theology at Duke University, Durham, N. C., who visited us once last year, spoke at the Sunday morning service.

Columbia Limits Entrants.

Because of failure to pass a new "capacity test" or advanced intelligence test, 175 of the 450 applicants to Columbia Law School have been refused admittance. 129 members of last year's group have also been excluded from the school. It is thought that by the use of this test, which allows admittance of only the most capable men, the number of failures will be diminished.

Boxwood Inn-terests

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McKee, of Cranford, N. J., visited their daughter, Sarah, last Thursday.

Mrs. L. H. Moore, of Montgomery, Ala., arrived Saturday to visit her daughter, Sarah. Mr. Moore and small daughter joined them Sunday.

Mrs. W. F. Hope, of Goldsboro, N. C., spent a few days with her daughter, Elvie.

Mr. H. T. Seymour, of New York City, was a guest at the Inn over the week-end.

Infirmity Notes.

Miss Wills of Lynchburg, and Amherst, formerly nurse at Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Virginia Military Institute, and Lehigh University, has taken Mrs. Payne's place as nurse in the Sweet Briar infirmary. Mrs. Payne, who had an attack of tonsillitis last spring is recuperating in Norfolk, Va., and will not be back at work for some time.

There have been a few colds but the infirmary has been empty and will be until the apple crop is consumed.

John, the chef, is now making 55 loaves of brown bread to 70 loaves of white bread. He is ready and willing to make all we will eat if we do it regularly and not by fits and starts. We have noted that the brown bread is better than ever. Most of the white bread goes to Vergara Reid. It won't be long now until the Freshmen will be going to the infirmary wanting to learn the secrets of reducing only to be told to eat less white bread. One Freshman has already gained eight pounds, another five.

Miss Bartlett has given to the infirmary some new apparatus, a Brady lamp. This is composed of two lenses, one for the examination of the eye, the other for the throat.

Dr. Harley says that if the Y. W. A. would sell cigarettes instead of candy they would make as much money and the infirmary would be less rushed.

Miss Mallard Plans Another Bermuda Trip

Miss Mallard wishes to organize a party to go to Bermuda during spring vacation. Five or six inquiries have been made and Miss Mallard will be glad to give any further information desired.

Talk About England Given in Convocation.

stood on the line that marks the Meridian. Here, she met a number of Astronomers.

At Cambridge, English University life was revealed to her. The English youth feels it a privilege to walk where great men have moved. King's Chapel, "the glory of Cambridge," Miss Morenus says must be seen to be appreciated. On the river, canoeing, rowing, and punting, especially, are popular.

At the time when princesses were in bloom, she was in Devonshire.

On the continent, Miss Morenus went to the International Astronomical Association at Liden, Holland; while in Holland she was entertained by the Dutch Government at the Hague.

One of the best parts of her trip, Miss Morenus says, has been her welcome to Sweet Briar.

One Year Ago.

Sweet Briar News made its first appearance October 5th.

Betty Prescott was elected Senior class president.

Amelia Woodward won the cup for horsemanship at Amherst County Fair Thursday, October 8th.

"Feller," the highly-trained police dog, owned by Mr. Herbert, visited Sweet Briar October 8th.

Mr. Horace Samuels opened his concert season with a recital at Sweet Briar on the evening of Oct. 7th.
